Last year Indiana sent forty-six delegates to the con ference and this time it is expected that the State will be represented by at least fifty. It was announced that with the beginning of the fall term of Indiana University an association house will be started under the direction of a secretary. PRIMARIES AGAINST

THE TAGGART MACHINE WAS OILED FOR THAT PURPOSE.

Night Conference Held at English's Hotel-Candidates Busy Shaking Hands-Gossip.

A majority of the leading Democrats of the State who expect to attend the State convention have arrived. The most of them are stopping at the Grand Hotel, which is headquarters for Democracy. The delegates are slow in arriving. One candidate said yesterday that he had never known a time when there were fewer delegates present two days before the convention. The greater part of the crowd now here is composed of men who are working for some particular candidate. · The majority of the candidates had arrived by noon yesterday. Those who opened headquarters during the day had a quiet time of it. Frank B. Burke, who has Room 2 on the second floor, was in his apartment most of the afternoon but did not have a great many callers. John W. Kern put in the greater part of the afternoon in the lobby, handshaking and talking. Mayor Taggart was much in evidence. His smile was unusually bland and he offered a hand divide the vote between Kern and Burke. hibit is found on the second floor, on the to everybody. "Bob" Bell, of Fort Wayne, who is staying at the Denison, was about the Grand during the afternoon, making Burke's friends were complaining last of the work of pupils in the High School, himself agreeable to everybody. H. R. Wair, a good looking young man of South Bend, was at the Grand all day, and was pointed out as the law partner of B. F. Shively. Mr. Wair maintained a discreet silence all day in reference to Mr. Shively's affairs, saying he preferred to let Mr. Shively speak for himself. The lobbies of the hotel contained a big crowd last night until a late hour.

Among the arrivals during the day was Allen W. Clark, formerly "king of the push," who brought the information that Messrs. Johnson and Walsh, of the Democratic National committee, would arrive in the city to-night to attend the convention. Clark is editing an agricultural paper in Chicago, but is still identified with the Democratic national committee. About the only important meeting held by the Democratic politicians yesterday was the meeting of the State committee which took place in the evening. Following is a list of the candidates who have thus far announced themselves: For Governor-John W. Kern, Indianapolis; Frank B. Burke, Indianapolis; Nelson J. Bozarth, Valparaiso.

For Lieutenant Governor-Captain Lawler, Salem; Major Simpson, Paoli; J Kopelke, Crown Point. For Secretary of State-Adam Heimberger, New Albany. State-John W. Minor. For Auditor of

Columbia City. TALK OF THE PLATFORM.

Opinion Prevails that It Will Be

"Conservative" Regarding Silver. The opinion prevails among leading Democrats that, while the platform to be adopted by the state convention will not overlook the financial question, it will not go greatly into detail in what it has to say about it. It is the belief that the platform will, in a general way, indorse the Chicago platform, and will then declare for silver and gold, perhaps not using the term "ratio," or "sixteen to one." It is generally understood that the policy of the administration in regard to the new territory accriticised, and that there will be an antitrust plank and a plank declaring against large standing armies. Allen W. Clark, whose views on the financial question are well known, said. last night, that the two elements-the one known as the "conservatives" and the other the ultra silver men-are entirely narmonious on the money question. He believes that the platform to be adopted tomorrow will be after the style of the one made in the Kansas state convention. It will reaffirm the Chicago platform and demand that silver be returned to the place it occupied in the currency of the country prior to 1873.

Dan W. Simms, a leading Democrat of Lafayette, has submitted his views on the platform to those who will probably have something to do with making it. He thinks it sufficient to reaffirm the Chicago platform and to go no further on the financial question. "I believe the platform should be broad enough," he said, "for every good citizen to stand on it. The paramount issue now is whether or not we are for imperialism; whether we are going to reverse the policy of the government; whether we are going to adopt the suggestion of Senator Beveridge when he said, in a speech, in 898; 'England has her colonies, why shall not we? Germany has her dependencies, why shall not we? The great world powers are all struggling for supremacy and why shall not the United States take front rank?" The adoption of this suggestion abrogates the Declaration of Independence. puts the Constitution in the background and renders the struggle of our forefathers an idle ceremony.'

SILVER ENTHUSIASTS

Hold a Midnight Conference at the Hotel English.

A meeting of about twenty out-of-town Democrats was held in W. L. Slinkard's room at English's Hotel until 12:30 this morning, to prepare to combat any move on the part of the Taggart machine to railroad a platform through the convention is which the free silver plank is eliminated. Mr. Slinkard is from Bloomfield and represents a large portion of Southern Indiana through the hand of one of the men, that is opposed to the control of the party by the Marion county machine. Some time ago he sent out a letter to a large number of Democrats over the State asking them to meet him at his room in the hotel at 10 a. m. The meeting was not held yesterday morning but those in sympathy with the | cago platform as a whole. movement got together last night. The letter was a strong appeal to the Democracy of Indiana to stand by the Chicago platform, and said: "The principles handed down to us by Jefferson and Jackson, that the coinage of both silver and gold, without discrimination against either at the historic ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States, should be preserved and maintained. The present signs indicate that an effort will e made to not embody that declaration in the State platform, or at least a lukewarm or equivocal plank will be attempted to be foisted on the Democratic party in

The letter asked the recipient to bring workers with them and this was the class

ing the advisability of taking the proposed step, but it was how to take it. The entire Chicago platform was indorsed, then the discussion of a plan that will be the most efficient in blocking any effort to get an anti-silver platform through the convention was entered into by "long headed" members of the meeting. The candidates representing the objectionable element were also given an overhauling and the foundation for an organized fight against them on the convention floor was laid by the handful of silver enthusiasts. It was stated by several of the men after the meeting that it is the plan to "lay quiet" until the proper time comes, and by others, that their temporary organization is only to "be on the safe side.

PRIMARIES FOR KERN.

BURKE | The Taggart Machine Carried Everything Before It.

As a result of the primaries held last night, Frank B. Burke may get a few votes in Marion county. He said last night that he expected no encouragement in that he will receive some votes from the Marion county. However, it is certain city delegation and perhaps a few from the out townships. At the primary held by the Democratic voters of Center township outside the city, the delegates were instructed to vote for Shively, unless he positively refused to be a candidate for the nomination for Governor. In this event the delegates were instructed to vote against the "ring." The primary also adopted resolutions reaffirming the Chi-

In the Sixth ward-Mayor Taggart's own ward-the Kern slate was victorious. Among the delegates selected were Mayor Taggart Charles Polster and Barney Conroy. There was a lively time at this primary when August M. Kuhn sought to get Mr. Conroy off the ticket. Mr. Kuhn arose and moved that the name of Emil Fertig, one of the alternates, be substituted for Barney Conroy. The motion was voted down with a howl. Mr. Conroy became very indignant, it is said, and after the noise subsided he sprang to his feet and | the skill of a professional photographer. facing Mr. Kuhn exclaimed in wrathful On the same "line" are also some exceptones: "What in the h-l did I ever do to you, you d-gold bug?" Mr. Kern and Mr. Burke both reside in the Third ward. After the delegates had been selected a motion prevailed to instruct the delegation form this ward to Holtzman, J. E. McCullough, Joseph E. Bell and W. S. Ryan. Some of Mr. not conducted in accordance with the instructions sent out by the county committee. In the Fourth ward the Burke slate was badly defeated. Henry Warrum, a stanch Democrat, and the law partner of Frank B. Burke, was defeated. He was in no soft mood when he reached the Grand Hotel about 9 o'clock last night. "I was thrown in the air," he said. "The fact that I was Mr. Burke's law partner, that I had made two losing campaigns, that I am yet to be relied on to give my time and money to the party, was no argument with these fellows who had talked so much of giving Mr. Burke a fair deal No man can aspire even to be a State delegate in this city if his name is not approved by the political Jove who shakes his head or gives the nod. Mr. Burke's candidacy is a protest against the efforts to apply machine methods to State affairs and I believe it will appeal to the honest, independent delegates to this convention. In the Seventh ward the Burke people received the worst drubbing they had experienced anywhere. The Burke slate lelegates selected in this ward were Joseph T. Fanning, John N. Navin, Sam Dinnen, E. R. Hooten and James Ryan. In the Tenth ward there was a big fight for supremacy and the James L. Keach slate finally won. Keach, it is understood, is an admirer of Frank B. Burke. It is said that Keach was not near the primary, but was represented by James Moriarity, who is one of the delegates. Kern's friends claim that the Tenth ward delegates will divide the vote between Burke and Kern. The contests resulting from last night's primaries will be settled to-night by the credentials committee of the convention.

STATE COMMITTEE WRANGLE

Over the Selection of the Four Delegates at Large.

One of the sessions of the Democratic state committee last night broke up in wrangle. Mayor Taggart, the member from the Seventh district, tried to dictate the course of the committee, and, not being as successful as he thought he should be intimated that he wasn't being dealt fairly with. The wrangle came up over the selection of delegates at large to the national convention, a matter which Mr. Taggart demanded that the committee should take up. He announced to the committee that he wanted the four delegates at large selected, and then suggested that each mem-meeting to-night and see that such men a would vote for the four selected by the state committee be put on the committee on rules and permanent organization. It is this committee that will select the delegates at large. Mr. Taggart was successful in persuading the other members of the committee to take his view of the matter and three men were agreed on without any special argument. These were three of Mr. Taggart's personal friends-Samuel E. Morss, Hugh Dougherty and Parks M. Martin. U. S. Jackson then sugthe fourth delegate at large. A wrangle occurred over this suggestion and Mr. Clark was not selected. The names of Major Menzies and James Murdock were then presented. Mr. Murdock is known to be a genuine "machine" man. However, he received but one vote, and this was cast by Mr. Taggart. The latter then declared that the vote had not been properly counted or taken and demanded that the meeting be adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting adjourned. B. F. Shively Expected To-Day.

The friends of B. F. Shively expected that he would arrive in the city yesterday, but he failed to get here. A part of the St Joseph county delegation came in last night with the information that Mr. Shively would be here some time to-day. Politicians from different parts of the State feel that there is a strong inclination everywhere to compel Mr. Shively to make the race. The fact that this Shively sentiment seems to be gaining strength has had a tendency to confuse matters with the other gubernatorial candidates-Messrs. Burke, Kern and Bozarth. They are unable to estimate their strength as long as nothing definite is known as to what Mr. Shively's friends intend doing with him.

Warwick County Delegation.

Thomas Lindsey, of Boonville, piloted party of Democrats into English's Hote last night, that will represent Warwick county in the convention. He said he thought the majority of southern Indiana delegates will vote for Burke, but that his delegates are uninstructed. Asked if there is the same feeling toward the "Taggart machine" as there was at the time of the reorganization of the State committee, he smiled and said: "Well, not exactly, you know that is all over now.

R. E. Bell's Views.

R. E. Bell, of Fort Wayne, who wants to be a delegate at large to the national convention, thinks that George Fred Williams should be nominated for Vice President. He also thinks that J. G. Shanklin will be re-elected national committeeman if he desires the place again. "He is regarded as a big, generous-hearted man who has been in the harness for a long time," said Mr. Bell. The latter thinks the state platform should be a strong indorsement of the Chi-

Said to Be Fighting Burke.

The friends of Frank B. Burke were yessuits to set aside the franchise. One story circulated yesterday was to the effect that the street-car company proposed to carry men from one precinct to another last night, so that there would be no possibility of the Kern slate failing.

EXHIBIT SCHOOL

THE ART DISPLAY VIEWED BY HUN-DREDS OF PEOPLE.

Talent of a High Order Indicated by Some of the Work-Will Continue This Week.

The Indianapolis High School is one the places of interest that will scarcely be overlooked by residents and visitors in Indianapolis this week. Large numbers of people passed through its hospitably wide entrance, up the magnificent stairway and through the spacious corridors last night, between 8 and 10 o'clock, viewing with unconcealed admiration the artistically arranged groups of photographs, drawings and sketches which confronted the eye in every direction. These pictures represent an amount of art talent, both incipient and rapidly developing, which must be a great surprise to those who have been unaware of its existence, and which also means that the city is destined some time to take high rank as an art center. A visitor's interest is first caught by an attractively-mounted "line" of amateur photographs on the broad landing between the first and second floors. To the right of the beautiful "hall clock," which was presented to the High School by the class of '99, is a group of remarkably clear-cut and well-finished photographs of the building and grounds, showing the High School Cadets at "attention." On the left are groups of natural views, including "January," "Dam at Broad Ripple," a barefooted little girl and a portion of Monument Circle, all executed apparently with tionally fine "Field Day" pictures, which are the work of B. Douglass. Walter P. Pollock is another young man whose work shows to fine advantage. The main extation rooms. The High School display comprises work in oil, charcoal, water colors, pencil and pen and ink, with almost every conceivable subject of illustration. Wonderfully well executed book illustrations in black and white and also in colors, pictures of birds, animals, flowers and natural scenes, silhouette and poster pictures and drawings and sketches in bewildering variety are shown. Great attention seems to have been paid to pencil sketching, as demonstrated by the number of excellent samples of this style of work. In the history room a splendid view of a stairway is to be Here are also to be found some handsome designs for art calendars. An exhibit that attracts much attention is that of the life class, which includes a great variety of pencil and charcoal drawings, designs for book covers and water color sketches. A unique picture in this collection is that of a skull, bunch of roses and bottle on a small table, drawn by Elmer Wilmington. Some admirable work done by Alice B. Scott and Bess M. Brown is also contained in this exhibit. The display credited to the Manual Training High School is never without a large quota of visitors. Wildhack, is prominent in the Training School exhibit. Mr. Wildhack has quite a list of sketches to which his name is appended. In this group more book cover designs are found, also nature sketches in water colors, together with a variety of crayon and charcoal designs. That some of the pupils promise to turn their talent in the direction of architecture is shown by a neat collection of plans for Some very good and also some very bad specimens of lettering are shown. In the Normal School exhibit are many new and attractive wall paper designs, ook illustrations, calendars and fruit and flower pictures. The best work is to be in what is called "the advanced room," in which samples of pictures made by pupils in the highest grades are exhibited. Among the most conspicuous of the exhibits in this room are three white and black oil paintings, by Myra Talbott, charcoal and water color sketches by Alice Scott and charcoal and water color pictures by Alexis B.
